FG Spends N727b to Expand Access to Tertiary Education

Minister of Education, Mallam Adamu Adamu (L) and Professor Bogoro (R) during the 8th Edition of the Weekend Ministerial Press Briefing

The Federal Government has spent over N727 billion in the last four years, through the Tertiary Education Trust Fund (TETFund) on developing infrastructure and expanding access in Public Tertiary Educational Institutions in the country.

The Honourable Minister of Education, Mallam Adamu Adamu made this known during the 8th Edition of the Weekend Ministerial Press Briefing with the theme "Increasing Access to, and Improving the Quality of Tertiary Education".

Mallam Adamu added that much of the funds went into the provision of hostel accommodation, classrooms, lecture theaters and laboratories, with a view to widening access for the teeming population of Nigerian youth seeking admission into tertiary institutions.

The Honourable Minister stated that access to quality education has been a major challenge to Nigerians over the years but said the Federal Government is committed what is necessary to ensure that Nigerians have unfettered access to quality education.

President Muhammadu Buhari-led administration He explained has accomplished the following since 2015; establishment of new tertiary institutions, increased the carrying capacity of existing ones, provided scholarship awards to deserving students, and reduced fees and levies for entrance into tertiary institutions; apart from infrastructural development.

He added that in order to maintain quality in these institutions, the Ministry has ensured effective supervision of the institutions, provided high level manpower training, Library Services, Information and Communication Technology facilities to enhance digital learning among others.

On the training of personnel of Public Tertiary Institutions in the country, the Honourable Minister stated that during the four-year period of the President Muhammadu Buhari's administration, the Ministry had through the TETFund, intensified high profile training for staff of the institutions with emphasis on Doctorate and Masters Degrees through the Academic Staff Training and Development, Conferences, Teaching Practice Supervision and Research Support Services.

He stated that on the whole, the Federal Government's investment in capacity building in public tertiary educational institutions under the Buhari administration from TETFund alone amounted to over N109 billion, having invested over N727 billion on infrastructural development within the same period.

The Executive Secretary of TETFund, Prof. Suleiman Elias Bogoro was in attendance at the meeting with the Director, Public Affairs, TETFund, Dr. Jacob Alada.

TETFund Agog as President Buhari Reinstates Prof. Bogoro

There was a wild jubilation recently at the Tertiary Education Trust Fund (TETFund), as staff of the Fund sighted Prof. Suleiman Elias Bogoro at the Fund's Corporate Headquarters in Maitama Abuja following his reinstatement as the Executive Secretary TETFund by President Muhammadu Buhari, GCFR.

The news of Prof. Bogoro's return to the Fund had spread like wild fire on the morning of his return as staff waited anxiously in their various offices to see what events would unfold.

On alighting from his vehicle, the ecstatic staff who had eagerly waited to confirm the authenticity of the rumour about his reinstatement literally mobbed him as he approached the entrance of the corporate headquarters of the Fund.

The reinstated Executive Secretary who, was visibly touched at the rousing welcome given to him by

Professor Bogoro, (r) being welcomed to the Fund by the Director Public Affairs, Dr Jacob Alada and other staff of TETFund on his assumption after his reinstatement staff of the Fund presented his Letter of Reinstatement to the Confidential Secretary in the Office of the Executive Secretary for documentation.

According to his Letter of reinstatement signed on behalf of the Honourable Minister of Education, Mallam Adamu Adamu by the Permanent Secretary, Arc. Sonny Echono, the reinstatement was with immediate effect and under the same terms and condition as his previous appointment and as stipulated in the TETFund Staff Conditions of Service.

Bogoro (5th L) in a group photograph with the visiting Cultural Affairs Officer of United States in Nigeria, Mr. Sterling Tilley (4th L), the Cultural Affairs Specialist of the United States Embassy, Miss Bella Anne Ndubuisi (5th R) AND OTHER Management staff of TETFund

The Executive Secretary of TETFund, Prof. Suleiman Elias Bogoro yesterday received in his office the Cultural Affairs Officer of the United States in Nigeria, Mr. Sterling Tilley.

Tilley who was accompanied to the Fund by Miss Bella Anne Ndubuisi, the Cultural Affairs Specialist of the Embassy, stated that the aim of the visit was to strengthen the already existing relationship between the United States Embassy and the Fund through partnership aimed at building capacity of Academics in Nigerian Universities.

In particular, the Cultural Affairs Officer stated that the US Government and the Fund could partner through its Fulbright's Scholarship Programme and the TETFund Academic Staff Scholarship programme whereby Academic staff of Nigeria's Universities are supported by both the TETFund and

US Government to undertake their Masters and PhD Programmes in the US at a cost to be shared.

Furthermore, TETFund Scholars who are undertaking their PhD's in Science-related fields in Nigeria could also benefit by being jointly sponsored by the Fund and the US Government to undertake their Benchwork in Universities and Research Centers or Institutes in the US.

This process which started in 2015 with Prof. Bogoro if concluded would further justify the confidence the US Government has on the Fund as one of the foremost Agencies of Government in Nigeria.

The Executive Secretary of TETFund

Executive Secretary of TETFund, Professor S. E. Bogoro (r) explaining a point when the Cultural Affairs Officer of the United States in Nigeria, Mr. Sterling Tilley (L) paid him a courtesy visit in his response stated that the visit and the desire to revive discussions on this partnership could not have come at a better time, adding that it would increase the number of participants seeking to further their studies at the Masters and PhD levels as well as those desirous of undertaking their Bench work in America's Universities or Research Institutes/Centers.

Prof. Bogoro pointed out that the Fund is looking forward to expanding its scholarship programme to accommodate the increasing number of Academic staff yearning for opportunities for further studies.

He assured that the Management of the Fund is ready for such partnership and would facilitate arrangements to ensure it is concretized within the shortest possible time.

Furthermore, the Executive Secretary stated that US Government wants to partner with TETFund through its Fulbright Programme because of the credible Scholarship Programme the Fund runs.

It should be noted that scholars on this partnership will enjoy the full status of both TETFund and Fulbright Scholars and other opportunities available after the completion of their programmes.

The Fulbright Programme is sponsored by the United States Department of State Bureau of Educational and Cultural Affairs, under world-wide policy guidelines established by the Fulbright Board.

Bogoro's Re-instatement Not A Surprise-UNIMAID VC

The Executive Secretary of Tertiary Education Trust Fund (TETFund) Professor Suleiman Elias Bogoro over the weekend received in his office a delegation from the University of Maiduguri (Unimaid) led by its Vice Chancellor Professor Ibrahim Abubakar Njodi.

Speaking during the visit the Vice Chancellor said the purpose of the courtesy call was to congratulate Professor Bogoro on his recent re-instatement as the Executive Secretary of TETFund.

Professor Njodi said Unimaid recognizes Professor Bogoro's leadership qualities noting that his unprecedented recall to serve at the Fund again by President Muhammadu Buhari (GCON) is a confirmation of the confidence Nigerians have in his administrative and Managerial acumen. The University the Vice Chancellor said, is proud of the Executive Secretary's re-instatement being an Alumnus of the University and it will continue to support him in anyway possible.

Professor Bogoro (R) receiving a plaque from the Vice Chancellor of Unimaid, Professor Ibrahim Abubakar Njodi when the Management team of the institution paid him a congratulatory visit after his re-instatement at TETFund

The Executive Secretary in his response thanked the Vice Chancellor and contended that the size of the delegation not only made him emotional but also evoked a feeling of nostalgia remembering his days as a student at the University.

The highly elated Executive Secretary stated that he has come back with a renewed vigour to relentlessly serve the Fund and the Country at large.

He assured the Vice Chancellor of his continued support to the University within the ambit of the law in order to ensure that the Institution continues with its excellent performance in the utilization of Intervention funds.

Finally, he commended the Vice Chancellor of the University and his Management team for their promptness in accessing their yearly allocations, a feat which he noted many of the Beneficiary Institutions are still struggling with.

Bogoro Parleys TETFund Staff...Promises Improved Welfare

Professor S.E. Bogoro (7th R) in a group photograph with members of TETFund Management staff after a meeting with the entire staff

Executive Secretary of Tertiary Education Trust Fund (TETFund), Professor Elias Suleiman Bogoro has held a meeting with staff of the Agency, after his reinstatement by President Muhammadu Buhari.

Addressing staff of TETFund in his first meeting with them, Professor Bogoro explained that his reinstatement was unprecedented in the history of Nigeria, and pledged to manage the Fund to the point of becoming a reference point for other institutions to follow.

Recall that the Executive Secretary resumed to a thunderous welcome by highly elated staff of the Fund who rushed down the premises to usher him into office on Monday, 21st January, 2019.

He said; "I give God the glory for my unprecedented reinstatement in a way that has never happened before. I don't know how to thank the President for giving me a medal that no Nigerian has attained before and I pledge to do everything to manage the Fund's affairs very well."

"I struggled with tears on Monday when I resumed and I am so proud of you all and may God bless you. I will never forget your style of welcoming me because it has vindicated me. Other organization will learn how to run and manage human beings with respect," he added.

He recalled that he was part of the Academic Staff Union of Universities' (ASUU) struggle that not only led to the establishment of the Fund, but ensured that its mandate of focusing on Public Tertiary Institutions for maximum impact was pursued.

"I never imagined that I will sit on the leadership of the institution we fought for through ASUU. We insisted that TETFund be streamlined to intervene only in Public Tertiary Institutions because government only intervenes where it will benefit the greater majority; as according to the National Universities Commission (NUC), Private Universities cater for only 6% of students intake,” Professor Bogoro noted.

On how TETFund has contributed to restoring the glory of tertiary institutions in Nigeria through interventions in Infrastructural Development, Academic Staff Training and Development, Journal and Book Development, among others, he pointed out that his predecessors were instrumental to these innovative policies presently operating in the Fund.

On ensuring that TETFund projects are of the highest quality, Bogoro emphasized that there is no excuse for sub-standard projects, insisting that only the best quality projects will be sponsored by the Fund.

On staff welfare, the Executive Secretary stated that it is part of his six point agenda to uplift the welfare of staff intellectually, through capacity building as well as improved Condition of Service to give every member of staff a sense of belonging.

He said the Fund is expanding its partnership internationally with regards to capacity building of staff, with a view to equipping them to confidently face the challenges of their daily work schedules with beneficiary institutions.

Staff were also given opportunity to ask questions or comment on issues affecting the workplace, to which the Executive Secretary responded with assurance to revisit and take appropriate action.

Some of the issues raised include: improved welfare packages, health facility for emergency purposes, establishment of crèche within the premises, newly created Research and Development Department, possibility of re-opening zonal offices as well as internal dissemination of information among staff.

The opening remark was given by Director, Human Resource Management, Mallam Umar Bukar, while the Director, Finance and Investment, Alhaji Saidu Idris gave the vote of thanks.

All the Directors, Departmental Heads and Management staff were in attendance during the meeting.

Bogoro Commissions N336 Million Academic Publishing Center

Executive Secretary of Tertiary Education Trust Fund (TETFund) Professor Suleiman Elias Bogoro, commissioning the Academic Publishing Center

Executive Secretary of Tertiary Education Trust Fund (TETFund) Professor Suleiman Elias Bogoro has commissioned the Academic Publishing Center (APC), worth over N336 million, at University of Calabar (UNICAL).

The Project is the third to be completed out of the seven Centres, one in each of the six Geo-political Zone and the Federal Capital Territory sponsored by the Fund.

Speaking during the Project commissioning, Professor Bogoro explained that the provision of these standard Academic Publishing Centers across the zones was conceived by TETFund as part of the Fund's effort at improving the quality of education, encouraging local quality Book Publishing to serve tertiary institutions in these zones.

He decried the dwindling reading culture among Nigerians, as well as the poor quality of published books, which prompted the Fund to embark on building these ultra-modern Publishing Centers across the zones.

He said 'It became necessary for TETFund to provide funds for the establishment of Academic Publishing Centers in the six geo-political zones in the country to stem the diminishing publishing and reading culture in the country'

Furthermore, he stated that "I feel ashamed as a Professor to see garbage literatures being sold by vendors all over the place. This is unacceptable. That is why the Publishing Centers are being established. We have to ensure that standards are maintained in our Universities".

The Executive Secretary gave assurance that the Fund would continue to its live up to expectations as it would never abandon the Centers to lose its relevance.

Also speaking at the event, Vice Chancellor of UNICAL, Professor Zana Akpagu expressed gratitude to TETFund for ensuring the project, which had linger for some years was finally completed.

He promised that the Institution would adhere to the TETFund guidelines so in respect to the allocation from the fund as to maximally utilize allocated funds to carry out more projects that the school is yearning for, to improve teaching and learning.

Professor Akpagu thanked the Executive Secretary for choosing UNICAL for the establishment of such iconic project for the South-South Geo-political zone.
